Abstract

[0029]   A keyboard scan engine integrated on a chipset to initiate a keyscan process. The keyboard scan engine to detect. a key depression. When in a trusted mode, transmitting a key code, corresponding to the key depression, through a trusted internal bus interface. When in a non-trusted mode, the key code is to be transmitted through an interface to be processed by an onboard key board controller

5